Over 6,000 pilgrims flock to ancient Bagan pagodas during Tazaungdine holidays

PILGRIMS from all over the country came in flocks to celebrate the Tazaungdine holidays in the Bagan-NyaungU Archeological Zone yesterday, according to U Than Myint Oo, Head of office of the Shwezigon Pagoda Board of Trustees.

Shwezigon Pagoda is one of the major pagodas where pilgrims usually pay visits in Bagan. The pagoda has extended visiting hours from 5 am to 8 pm during the holiday period although it is open from 6 am to 6 pm on regular days, he further explained. Nineteen pagodas have their boards of trustees in Bagan, and visitors were allowed to visit following COVID-19 preventive guidelines.

Bagan Archeological Zone is a historical site in Myanmar with over 4,000 pagodas and temples built between the 11th and 13th centuries. As of yesterday, the most famous pagodas such as Shwezigon, Ananda Temple, Thabbinnyu and Dammayangyi pagodas, renowned as four major pagodas to visit in Bagan, were crowded with pilgrims. Moreover, visitors also paid visits to other historical pagodas, including Manuha, Lawkananda, Tooth relic Pagoda, Sulamuni, Soem-

Kyaikne mid-water pagoda in Thanbyuzayat expects visitors

THE festival of Kyaikne mid-water pagoda, located in the sea about two miles from the beach in Anke and Wekalaung villages of Thanbyuzayat Township of Mon State, is held on 3rd Waning of Tazaungmon yearly.

“The Kyaikne mid-water festival is yearly held and it hosts many visitors. During the festival, the water level is low starting at 7 am and it emerges a natural stone road that is also called Natlan about 30 or 40 feet in width to the pagoda. The visitors can walk on that road to get to the pagoda and can also enjoy nice views. Due to the hospitality of local ethnic people and proper transport, the place can lure the visitors every year,” said a resident of Wekalaung Village.

During the days of the festival, locals provide the free boat ride to the pagoda starting from 4 am. The visitors walk on that natural stone road when they return. Moreover, the township red cross society members and village social welfare organization members offer refreshment and distribute drinking water bottles and other necessary things. —Aye Aye Mon (IPRD)/GNLM

Political maturity

POLITICAL maturity and unity of stakeholders and the entire people play a crucial role in building the Union based on democracy and federalism. It is necessary to take lessons that Myanmar could not achieve the deserved development due to requirements in political maturity in successive eras. We must try hard to overcome such challenges. We need to build political maturity and unity with wise mental faculty for ensuring the peace of the nation.

Myeik-Yangon highway express bus service to resume with 50-per-cent capacity

AFTER three months of closure, the highway express buses running Myeik-Yangon were allowed to resume with 50 per cent of the total seat capacity in line with health protocols issued by the Ministry of Health, starting from 15 November, said an in-charge of Myeik Township Private Vehicles Supervision Committee.

The regional government has ordered the express bus lines to temporarily halt the operations for the past three months owing to the rapid surge of COVID-19 cases across the country.

The regional government directed the bus lines to resume the service from 15 November.

The seating capacity will reduce up to 50 per cent in compliance with the prevention measures for the COVID-19. The operators from Myeik, Dawei, Mawlamyine and Kawthoung are instructed to strictly follow the health guidelines.

The significant drop in the new COVID-19 cases led to the resumption of highway services, said U Moe Kyaw Thu, secretary of Myeik Township Private Vehicles Supervision Committee.

Despite the resumption of highway bus lines, the curfew in Taninthayi, Bago and Yangon regions and Mon State has been imposed and transport at night is still prohibited. As a result of this, they are having transport barriers at present, drivers stressed. “The ticket for Myeik-Yangon costs K50,000 and Myeik-Dawei route is charged K30,000.

“There are 35 mini-bus lines and 15 buses operating from Myeik town. The region government gave the go-ahead to highway bus service with 50 per cent of the total seat capacity. The number of passengers is likely to increase when some COVID-19 test (PCR test) is eased. The bus line operators also have requested this to the government,” U Moe Kyaw Thu continued.

The transport hour limit caused delay and additional charges, making the passengers uncomfortable.

“The ticket charges are not officially set. The bus lines are ordered to provide services with 50-per-cent capacity in line with health guidelines for the COVID-19. The terminals give the green light to those vaccinated passengers without PCR tests.

I like to request the authorities to ease the COVID-19 rules for those unvaccinated ones as well. We cannot avoid the delay due to the 8 pm curfew,” said Ko Thein Win, an in-charge of the Moe Kaung Kin bus station. — Myint Oo (Myeik)/GNLM

Develop human resources with noble goodwill

AS the infection of COVID-19 is down in the country now, higher education institutions are preparing to reopen after basic education schools have already been reopened. As part of sharing educational legacy to new generations, it is encourageable for the country to see the ceremonies to mark the fresher welcome and refresher courses to new generations of faculty members at universities and degree colleges as well as teachers from basic education.

This year's political changes caused vacancies in the education sector. Hence, the government recruited new generations of faculty members and basic education teachers in the vacant posts. Teachers are paralleled with the position of parents in the Myanmar tradition because of teaching pupils with goodwill, hobby and sympathy for improvement of educational knowledge at the students.

As such, it is necessary to build a secure and safe environment for students and teachers to be free from dangers in order to peacefully take academic measures in the future not to link out the process of turning out the educated persons across the nation.

Some unscrupulous persons commit bombing attacks on school buildings, students and teachers without any reason. Their attacks left innocent schoolchildren and teachers injured as well as buildings damaged. As such, the government is focusing on protecting teachers and students against dangers.

The government appreciates the concerted efforts of teachers, who understand two virtues in the Pali language, Hiri — shame at doing evil — and Ottappa — fear of the results of doing evil — for teaching the new generations of the country amid such difficulties and challenges.

The teachers teach their pupils based on their goodwill like their offspring and conscientiously serve a teacher's duties. They must train their students in the best discipline. They see that they grasp their lessons well. They instruct them in the arts and sciences, they provide them for their safety in every corner, and they introduce them to their friends and associates.

The people and the government heartily praise the teachers honoured as part of the Five Infinite Venerability for their efforts to turn out the human resources with noble goodwill.

Teachers sustain their noble spirit in conformity with the attributes of teachers in nurturing the students amid various difficulties, coercions and disturbances to become outstanding educated youths and new blood for the State in the future.

As such, it is necessary to build a secure and safe environment for students and teachers to be free from dangers in order to peacefully take academic measures in the future not to link out the process of turning out the educated persons across the nation.

Pfizer strikes global licencing deal for Covid pill

Under the deal struck with the global Medicines Patent Pool (MPP), Pfizer – which also produces one of the most widely-used Covid vaccines with German lab BioNTech – will not receive royalties from the generic manufacturers, making the treatment cheaper.

US PHARMACEUTICAL giant Pfizer on Tuesday announced a deal to make its prospective antiviral Covid-19 pill available more cheaply in the world's least-wealthy countries.

Pfizer will sub-licence production of its promising Paxlovid pill to generic drug manufacturers for supply in 95 low- and middle-income nations covering around 53 per cent of the world's population.

Under the deal struck with the global Medicines Patent Pool (MPP), Pfizer — which also produces one of the most widely-used Covid vaccines with German lab BioNTech — will not receive royalties from the generic manufacturers, making the treatment cheaper.

The agreement is subject to the oral antiviral medication passing ongoing trials and regulatory approval.

The Pfizer drug is to be taken with the HIV medicine ritonavir.

Ongoing trials

Interim data from ongoing trials demonstrated an 89 per cent reduction in the risk of Covid-19-related hospitalization or death compared to a placebo, in non-hospitalized high-risk adults with Covid-19 within three days of symptom onset, said Pfizer.

Similar results were seen within five days of symptom onset, it added.

The Geneva-based MPP is a United Nations-backed international organization that works to facilitate the development of medicines for low- and middle-income nations.

If approved, the pill could be on the market in “a matter of months”, MPP policy chief Esteban Burrone told AFP.

Pfizer also said Tuesday that it was seeking an emergency use authorization, or EUA, in the US for the Covid pill.

HIV drug mix

Pfizer will forego royalties on sales in all countries covered by the agreement while Covid-19 remains classified as a Public Health Emergency of International Concern by the World Health Organization.

Last month, the WHO maintained the highest level of alert over the spread of the SARS-CoV-2 virus that causes Covid-19.

Paxlovid, or PF-07321332, is an investigational antiviral therapy designed to block the activity of the SARS-CoV-2-3CL protease — an enzyme that the coronavirus needs to replicate.

Taking it together with a low dose of ritonavir helps slow the breakdown of PF-07321332. It therefore remains active in the body for a longer period at a high concentration, to help combat the virus. The pill could potentially help patients avoid severe illness, which can lead to hospitalization and death, Pfizer said.

“We believe oral antiviral treatments can play a vital role in reducing the severity of Covid-19 infections, decreasing the strain on our healthcare systems and saving lives,” said Pfizer chairman and chief executive Albert Bourla.

While a multitude of vaccines have been rolled out in the pandemic, the hunt for treatments for those who have already caught the disease has not been as fruitful.

Agreement follows Merck deal

The MPP was founded by Unitaid, which works on innovations to prevent, diagnose and treat major diseases in poorer countries.

“During a pandemic, saving time means saving lives. This agreement could help us to reach more people more quickly as soon as the medicine is approved,” said Unitaid executive director Philippe Duneton.

Potential sublicensees have until 6 December to register an expression of interest.

The announcement comes after the MPP signed a similar voluntary licensing deal with Pfizer's US rivals Merck & Co last month for its investigational oral antiviral medicine molnupiravir.

Subject to regulatory approval, the deal will help create broad access to molnupiravir in 105 low- and middle-income countries.

Pills are easier to make than vaccines, do not require a cold chain for delivery and can be self-administered by the patient.

In terms of relieving health systems by preventing hospitalizations, “it's a game changer”, said Burrone.

He said pricing for the Pfizer pill had not yet been set, but said that “in a competitive environment... the prices tend to come down” to a low level.

Doctors Without Borders (MSF) meanwhile suggested it might cost around $700 per Pfizer treatment course, in line with molnupiravir.

The medical charity said it was disheartened by the deal, saying restrictive voluntary licences were no substitute for guaranteed global access to Covid tools to bring the pandemic under control.

Indian Covid vaccine 'highly efficacious': study

The Indian-developed vaccine has a 78-per-cent efficacy rate after two doses over a month, according to the WHO.

COVAXIN, the first Covid-19 vaccine developed in India, is “highly efficacious” and presents no safety concerns, according to a study published in the Lancet on Thursday.

Covaxin, developed by Bharat Biotech, gained emergency approval from the World Health Organization last week and has already been cleared for use in 17 countries. The UN body has described it as “extremely suitable for low- and middle-income countries due to easy storage requirements”.

Some of the other approved vaccines must be stored at very low temperatures, which throws up logistical and cost problems.

Highly efficacious

Covaxin “was highly efficacious against laboratory-confirmed symptomatic Covid-19 disease in adults,” the report said.

The jab was also “well tolerated with no safety concerns raised in this interim analysis”, it added.

The Indian-developed vaccine has a 78-per-cent efficacy rate after two doses over a month, according to the WHO.

It has joined the anti-Covid vaccines produced by Pfizer/BioNTech, Moderna, AstraZeneca, Johnson&Johnson, Sinopharm and Sinovac on the WHO-approved list.

The roll-out of Covaxin can “increase the finite global manufacturing capacity, and improve insufficient supply of vaccines which disproportionately affects low-income and middle-income countries”, said Chinese researchers Li Jingxin Li and Zhu Fengcai, who did not take part in the study.

They did however mention certain limits to the study, saying that as the trials had been conducted solely in India, there was a less ethnically diverse study group.

Also the studies were carried out between November 2020 and January 2021, before the more contagious Delta variant of the virus became widespread.

But despite the trial dates, the researchers involved were able to identify which of the patients were infected with the Delta variant. For this sub-group the study found that Covaxin still provided protection against Covid, but was slightly less effective.

Terrorist groups brutally kill teachers

TEACHERS are honoured as part of the Five Infinite Venerables, and the manner of paying respect to the teachers can be only seen in Myanmar as a tradition. The teachers teach their pupils based on their goodwill like their own offspring and dutifully serve a teacher's duties. They must train their pupils and students in the best discipline. They see that they grasp their lessons well. They instruct them in the arts and sciences, they provide for their safety in every quarter, and they introduce them to their friends and associates.

Those who want to gain political profits, extremist NLD members and their supporters, NUG, CRPH and PDFs committed incitement against the education staff to join CDM with social punishment and threats and also committed bomb attacks and arson attacks on schools and killed the teachers to hamper the education sector. Due to the terrorist acts, 12 teachers died and 15 were injured between 1 February and 15 November.

Farmers start growing onions in Kyaukse

THE onions are started growing in the Kyaukse township of the Mandalay region. The onion plantations in Kyarkar village has succeeded and the local farmers from Kyaukse township have been growing onions since early October.

“One acre of onion plantation uses two pyis of onion seeds and it will cost around K1,300,000-K1,500,000 per acre, including cultivation cost, fertilizers and cropland rental fees,” said U Zin Thu, an onion grower.

There are 12 stations in Kyaukse township. The onions are cultivated about 433 acres in station 1, 1,082 acres in station 2, 245 acres in station 6, 139 acres in station 10, 72 acres in station 11 and 151 acres in station 12, according to the Township Department of Agriculture Land Management and Statistics.

Myanmar consumes five million visses of onion per month. The onion demand will be around 60 million visses per year. The onions were directly purchased from Bangladesh and India. Sometimes farmers have to send the onion to the Yangon market.

The onions are mainly grown in Pakokku, Salin, Hsinbhyukyun, Yenangyoung, Kyaukpadaung, Taungdwingyi, Myingyan, Taungtha, Myittha, Kyaukse, Monywa and Yinmabin. The onions are less grown in the lower Myanmar region. — Thet Maung (Kyaukse)/GNLM

Muse border trade down by US$487 mln as of 11 Nov

As of 11 November, Myanmar's exports to China through the Muse land border were valued at $93.633 million, while imports are worth $1.53 million. The trade showed a slump in both exports and imports compared to the corresponding period of last year.

THE value of trade between Myanmar and China via the Muse land border as of 11 November 2021 of the current mini-budget period (October 2021 – March 2022) showed a drastic drop of US$487 million owing to the border trade suspension, according to the Ministry of Commerce.

The value of the Muse border trade touched a low of $95 million over the past month amid the COVID-19 impacts. The figures plummeted from $582.399 million recorded in the year-ago period, according to the Ministry of Commerce.

As of 11 November, Myanmar's exports to China through the Muse land border were valued at $93.633 million, while imports are worth $1.53 million. The trade showed a slump in both exports and imports compared to the corresponding period of last year.

China has closed down the border posts (Kyinsankyawt, Wamting) from 8 July 2021 following the COVID-19 cases in Myanmar.

On 30 March, Mang Wein, which is a major border crossing between Muse and Kyalgaung areas, was suspended owing to the COVID-19 cases. On 1 April, Nantaw and Sinphyu border posts were suspended operations. As a result of this, the border trade between Myanmar and China was completely halted.

The closure of the Sino-Myanmar border trade resulted in job loss of about 400,000-600,000 workers engaged in the Muse border post. Furthermore, the short-haul trucks from Muse to China were also affected by this consequence. Additionally, traders from Muse border post were also battered by trade suspension, stopping the tax revenue.

Nonetheless, China will give the green light to the items stockpiled at the warehouses and the Kyalgaung checkpoint, China to be imported into Myanmar soon, in line with the Standard Operating Procedures (SOPs).

Myanmar exports agricultural products, including rice, beans and corns, and fishery products such as crab, prawn, etc. Furthermore, Myanmar's natural gas export to China is also conducted through the Muse-Ruili border. The raw CMP materials, electrical appliances and consumer goods are imported into the country. — KK/GNLM

Fresh chilli pepper priced at K10,000 per five visses in Myawady border

FRESH chilli pepper was offered at K10,000 per five visses (a viss equals 1.6 kg) in the Myawady border, said Daw Ohnmar Kyaw, chair of the Myanmar Chilli Market and Technology Development Association.

“The price of chilli is worth K10,000 per five visses, including the transport and other processing costs,” she added.

At present, the local fresh chillis lack supply. It fetches K1,400-2,000 per viss.

“The price is quite good on the low stockpile. The fresh chilli pepper supply has become smaller in Myanmar. It is harvest time in Thailand for now. As a result of this, the price is possible to decrease during the plentiful harvest time in Thailand,”

Myanmar's chilli pepper is primarily conveyed to Thailand and China. Nonetheless, the closure of the major border Muse post between Myanmar and China from 8 July brought Myanmar's fresh chilli pepper export to China to a halt. Consequently, the chilli pepper produced by the Kyaukse area, which was supposed to be conveyed to China, was shifted to Thailand through the Myawady border.

It is commonly grown in Ayeyawady, Mandalay and Magway regions and Shan State. The export varieties of fresh chilli peppers are 692, 777, 999, Demon, Sunshine, Lucky one and Tharmo. — NN/GNLM

Japan, US launch new trade initiative amid China's rise

JAPAN and the United States on Wednesday launched an initiative to facilitate regular discussions on trade issues critical to both countries in the face of China's economic rise.

The first series of meetings under the US-Japan Partnership on Trade are expected early next year, with the initial areas of focus including "third country concerns" and cooperation in improving a rules-based economic order in the Indo-Pacific region, according to officials of the two countries.

The announcement was made as Japanese Foreign Minister Yoshimasa Hayashi held a meeting with US Trade Representative Katherine Tai, who is on her first visit to Japan since assuming her position in March. "Our close collaboration will support the Biden-Harris administration's economic framework for the Indo-Pacific and help create sustainable, resilient, inclusive, and competitive trade policies that lift up our people and economies," Tai said in a statement. In an apparent reference to China, Japan and the United States have repeatedly raised the issue of "market-distorting practices," such as industrial subsidies and overproduction, at meetings of the Group of Seven nations and other multilateral talks.

Earlier in the day, Japan's trade and industry minister Koichi Hagiuda separately discussed with Tai bilateral cooperation in responding to such practices, according to the trade ministry. —Kyodo ■

FedEx relocates pilots from Hong Kong over city quarantine rules

FedEx has decided to close its Hong Kong crew base and relocate its pilots because of the city's strict anti-coronavirus measures PHOTO: JOEL SAGET / AFP

GLOBAL delivery giant FedEx said Wednesday it was closing its crew base in Hong Kong and relocating pilots overseas because of the city's strict anti-coronavirus measures.

The move is the latest blow to Hong Kong's reputation as a global logistics hub as strict travel curbs and mandatory quarantine rules keep the city cut off from the rest of the world.

"As the global business environment continues to evolve and with the pandemic requirements in Hong Kong, FedEx has made the decision to close its Hong Kong crew base and relocate its pilots," FedEx said in a statement to AFP.

"FedEx will continue to maintain its operations in Hong Kong, which is vital to our Asia Pacific and global network," the company added.

The South China Morning Post also reported FedEx's decision and quoted from a company memo written by system chief pilot Robin Sebasco.

"The decision to close the Hong Kong base reflects this constant evolution and is designed to provide a measure of stability to these team members, as there is no clear timeline when life may return to normal in Hong Kong," Sebasco wrote.

He added that the company would continue to serve Hong Kong with pilots based in Oakland, California.—AFP ■

Abu Dhabi's ADNOC to invest $6 bln for more oil drilling

ABU Dhabi's national oil company announced Tuesday a $6 billion investment in crude oil drilling as it ramps up production capacity.

The announcement comes a day after the United Arab Emirates (UAE) said a recent UN climate summit in Glasgow was a "success" but that the world needs to keep investing billions in oil and gas.

The UAE is one of the world's top crude exporters, with an average of 4.2 million barrels per day.

The Abu Dhabi National Oil Company (ADNOC) said the $6 billion investment would "enable drilling growth as it boosts its crude oil production capacity to 5 million barrels per day by 2030".

The ADNOC investments include contracts with multiple companies, some lasting for a decade, according to a statement released on the second day of the Abu Dhabi International Petroleum Exhibition and Conference.

Both the UAE and neighbouring Saudi Arabia, the world's number one oil exporter, have announced net zero carbon goals, despite efforts to ramp up oil production. The UAE has said it hopes to be carbon neutral by 2050. Nearly 200 countries at the COP26 summit pledged Saturday to speed up the fight against rising temperatures, after two weeks of negotiations.—AFP ■

Robots, big data as Gulf nations bet on AI

ROBOTS pattering around Dubai's hi-tech Expo site could be a sign of things to come for the Gulf, where new cities are being built from scratch with artificial intelligence at their core.

The 5G-enabled Expo, covering an area twice the size of Monaco, will remain as a "city of the future" and tech industry hub, Expo's chief told AFP before its grand opening last month.

But the $7 billion project, featuring robots that greet visitors and can be used to order food, is not alone in the wealthy Gulf, where petro-dollars are being invested heavily in a post-oil future.

Neighbouring Saudi Arabia is lavishing $500 billion on NEOM, a brand new, next-generation Red Sea tech centre that will offer ultra-connectivity to its planned population of one million-plus, and is trialling airborne taxis.

AI is also at the heart of other Saudi developments including the Red Sea Project, a new tourist area that will use smart systems to monitor environmental impacts and visitor movements.

Analysts say the Gulf monarchies are willing to bet big on AI, knowing they must move away from their reliance on fossil fuel industries and become more active in tech, tourism and other areas.

"You've got very forward (-looking), somewhat risk-loving leadership that sees the need to transform," said Kaveh Vessali, a partner at consultancy firm PwC Middle East.

"I think that's just completely the opposite of what I see in the rest of the world."—AFP ■

Israel judges postpone key testimony in Netanyahu graft trial

Former Israeli prime minister Benjamin Netanyahu (2nd R) arrives for a court hearing on corruption charges, on 16 November 2021 in Jerusalem. PHOTO: JACK GUEZ / AFP

FORMER Israeli prime minister Benjamin Netanyahu returned to court for his graft trial Tuesday, but judges granted a defence request to postpone highly anticipated testimony from his former spin doctor.

Netanyahu, now opposition leader in parliament after he was ousted by a broad coalition of rivals in June, arrived at the Jerusalem court house without the large security contingent and crowds of rival protesters that were on hand when he appeared as premier.

He has been charged with bribery, fraud and breach of trust in three separate indictments that collectively accuse him of accepting improper gifts and illegally trading regulatory favour with media moguls in exchange for positive coverage.

The testimony of his former spokesman Nir Hefetz had been expected to shed light on the ex-premier's dealings with the Bezeq telecommunications group.

In the Bezeq case, considered the most serious, Netanyahu is accused of offering regulatory benefits that could have been worth millions to the company in return for politically advantageous coverage on the group's Walla news site.

But Netanyahu's lawyers argued they were unprepared to respond to Hefetz's testimony following recent press revelations about new evidence he might share.

The prosecution said it regretted the leaks about Hefetz's expected testimony but urged the session to go ahead.—AFP ■

East Libya strongman Haftar says to run for president

THE strongman in the east of war-scarred Libya, Khalifa Haftar, said Tuesday he would run for president in a 24 December election that is also set to be contested by a son of former dictator Moamer Kadhafi.

"I declare my candidacy for the presidential election, not because I am chasing power but because I want to lead our people towards glory, progress and prosperity," he said in a speech, broadcast live on Libyan television.

His announcement comes two days after the candidacy of Seif al-Islam Kadhafi — the son of slain dictator Moamer Kadhafi ures. Haftar, backed by Russia, Egypt and the United Arab Emirates, is despised by many in western Libya and has been accused of seeking to establish a military dictatorship.

Iran enacts population law seen to limit women's healthcare

A law aimed at boosting Iran's population came into force on Tuesday after concerns were raised that it would limit women's access to reproductive healthcare.

The "Youthful Population and Protection of the Family" legislation was approved by parliament in October and entered into effect by notification from President Ebrahim Raisi.

The law renders reproductive screening optional, imposes restrictions on abortion and limits access to contraception, while providing added benefits to families with more children.

It also tasks public broadcasters with producing content that encourages women to have more children and denounces celibacy or abortion.

About 46.6 per cent of Iran's population of 83 million is under 30 years old, according to the latest data published in 2019 by the national statistics office.

The population under 30 has dropped since 2010 however at a negative rate of 3.24 per cent.

According to the World Bank, Iran's population growth rate has sharply declined from over four per cent in the early 1980s to 1.29 per cent in 2020.

The law has been criticized by United Nations experts, as well as by women's rights ac-

Japan experts craft 'super clone' of destroyed Afghan mural

Japanese researchers have crafted a "super clone" of an Afghan mural destroyed by the Taliban, using a mix of traditional and digital techniques that they hope will salvage the work's "spirit" for future generations.

Not a single fragment remains of the seventh-century cave painting demolished in 2001 along with two massive Buddha statues and other artefacts in Afghanistan's Bamiyan valley, sparking global condemnation.

But a precise replica, the result of three years of state-of-the-art reproduction efforts, went on display at a museum in Tokyo in September and October, just weeks after the Taliban returned to power in Kabul.

The mural on the ceiling of a cave near the famous statues depicted a blue Bodhisattva — or someone on the path to becoming a Buddha.

At six metres long and three metres high (20 by 10 feet), the intricate full-size copy has been dubbed a "super clone" by the reproduction team at Tokyo University of the Arts.—AFP ■

Polish forces fire tear gas at migrants on Belarus border

POLISH forces fired tear gas at stone-throwing migrants trying to cross the border from Belarus on Tuesday, the defence ministry said, as Belarusian leader Alexander Lukashenko claimed he wanted to avoid a "confrontation".

Polish border guards estimate up to 4,000 migrants are now camped out along the border between Poland and Belarus in increasingly dire conditions and freezing temperatures. Western powers accuse Belarus of orchestrating the crisis, possibly with the backing of Russia, by luring migrants to the border to sow division in the EU — though Minsk and Moscow deny the claims. At least 11 migrants have died on both sides since the influx started in the summer. One of them, a 19-year-old Syrian from the war-torn city of Homs, was laid to rest on Monday.—AFP ■

Chile's Senate declines to impeach president over business deal revealed in Pandora Papers

CHILE'S Senate declined Tuesday to impeach President Sebastian Pinera over a business deal revealed in the Pandora Papers leaks, refusing to go along with the lower chamber of Congress in opening proceedings against him.

The vote was 24 in favor of impeachment, 18 against and one abstention. Those voting to charge the billionaire president with corruption needed at least 29 votes to pass the measure.

"The defence has forcefully disproven each one of the facts that are presented as causes of this impeachment," Senator Francisco Chahuan, from Pinera's center-right National Renewal party. This means the case is closed, with no punishment of Pinera over the controversial sale of a mining company in 2010 when he was serving the first of two non-consecutive terms.

If impeached, Pinera could have risked up to five years in jail. Applause could be heard coming from the presidential headquarters of the Palacio de La Moneda after it became mathematically clear that lawmakers had summoned enough support for the president to avoid impeachment, even though a dozen senators still had to add their own votes.

MOX fuel from France arrives at nuclear power plant in Japan

A cargo ship carrying uranium-plutonium mixed-oxide fuel processed in France arrived Wednesday at a nuclear power plant in central Japan, the third such shipment since the 2011 Fukushima nuclear disaster.

The shipment of MOX fuel will be used for the and 4 reactors at the Takahama nuclear power plant in Fukui Prefecture, according to the plant operator Kansai Electric Power Co. The reactors currently use MOX fuel for so-called pluthermal power generation.

The fuel, created using plutonium and uranium extracted from reprocessing spent reactor fuel, is a key component of resource-poor Japan's nuclear fuel recycling policy.

Around 20 local residents protested outside the plant against the arrival of the MOX fuel shipment that left France in September, saying the fuel should not be used due to the risk of plutonium being diverted to make nuclear weapons.

After the ship arrived at the plant's port, the unloading of the roughly 6.2 metre-long and 108-tonne containers commenced after the radiation level was measured.—Kyodo ■

US China agree to ease visa restrictions for journalists

THE United States and China have agreed to ease visa restrictions on journalists from each country after they were tightened last year amid deteriorating bilateral relations, a US State Department spokesperson said Tuesday. The announcement came a day after US President Joe Biden and Chinese President Xi Jinping met virtually for their first summit talks as leaders of their respective countries. According to a Biden administration official, the visa issue was not discussed between them. Last year, the two countries took tit-for-tat measures to restrict the media sector, with China expelling American journalists working for some major US newspapers and the administration of then President Donald Trump limiting visas for Chinese journalists to 90 days.—Kyodo ■

UK's Johnson faces grilling from MPs amid sleaze row

PRIME Minister Boris Johnson faces a parliamentary grilling Wednesday over charges of sleaze within his Conservative party and lacklustre leadership at the COP26 climate summit.

Johnson will be quizzed by the heads of parliament's cross-party select committees at 1500 GMT for a stock-take of government policy, typically held three times a year and which can prove uncomfortable for under-fire leaders.

This session — Johnson's sixth since becoming prime minister in mid-2019 — coincides with a simmering crisis over MPs' conduct, primarily from his own ruling Conservative party, over potential conflicts of interest and lucrative second jobs.—AFP ■

Germany calls for space security rules after Russian satellite strike

GERMANY'S government said Tuesday it was "very concerned" by Russia's destruction of one of its own satellites during a missile test, calling for urgent measures to "strengthen security and confidence".

"We call on all states to engage constructively in this process and in the development of principles for responsible behaviour in space," the Germany foreign ministry said in a statement.

Russia on Tuesday admitted to having destroyed one of its satellites during a missile test a day earlier, provoking criticism from the United States and several European countries.

The US said the strike had created a cloud of debris and forced the crew of the International Space Station to take evasive action, a claim that Moscow rejected. "This irresponsible behaviour carries a risk of error of judgement and escalation," the German statement said.—AFP ■

Argentina qualify for World Cup after Brazil draw

ARGENTINA qualified for next year's World Cup in Qatar as a point in their 0-0 draw with Brazil on Tuesday proved enough after defeats for Chile and Uruguay.

The reigning Copa America champions came into the match against their arch rivals knowing that a win might not be enough to secure their ticket, but a draw could be.

And Chile's 2-0 defeat at home to Ecuador, coupled with Uruguay's 3-0 loss to Bolivia, sent Argentina through.

It caps a fine year for Argentina and Lionel Messi, who won their 15th Copa America in July with a 1-0 final victory over Brazil at Rio de Janeiro's iconic Maracana stadium.

"If we analyze this year, it was beautiful. What we've been through with the fans ... everything was complete," said Rodrigo De Paul.

Argentina welcomed back six-time Ballon d'Or winner Messi to their starting line-up while star forward Neymar missed out for Brazil.

But Messi was unable to inspire his team in a match of few chances, against opponents who booked their ticket to Qatar on Thursday with a 1-0 win over Colombia. Brazil remain top of the qualifying group, six points clear of Argentina, who took their unbeaten run to 27 matches. — AFP ■

Dutch book ticket to Qatar with win over Norway

TWO late goals by Steven Bergwijn and Memphis Depay on Tuesday saw the Netherlands book a ticket to the 2022 World Cup in Qatar, as they held Norway at bay with a 2-0 victory in Rotterdam.

Bergwijn, the standout player of the evening on the right wing, drilled the ball into the roof of the net following an assist by Arnaut Danjuma after a lacklustre 83 minutes that saw both sides struggle to create chances. Bergwijn again played a key role in the Dutch's second goal a few minutes later, after a counter-attack saw him run almost the length of the field before passing the ball to Depay, who slotted it past a diving Orjan Nyland.

Depay's 12th goal of the qualifying campaign rounded off the evening for the Netherlands, who only needed a draw against Norway to finish top of Group G ahead of Turkey and the Norwegians.

"They stuck to the game plan, they were a lot more compact," Dutch coach Louis van Gaal told the NOS public broadcaster.

Van Gaal admitted he was "worried that things could go wrong", especially after the his side's shocking 2-2 draw against Montenegro over the weekend when they let a two-goal lead slip in the final 10 minutes. "But this evening we kept the match under control," he added. — AFP ■
